HAPPINESS (DURING SUMMER) IS A SWIMMING FLOAT, and a pond to float it in. Bethel youngsters this summer will have both, thanks to the efforts of the town's Recreation Board members Dewaine Craig, Tom Kemington, Nancy Murphy, Alberta Merrill and Chris Zimmer. Tom constructed the basic float, and the group launched it and put on the decking June 13. The location is on Songo Pond.

Books losing out to videos in battle for hearts & minds

Now that our televisions are fed by VCR's, cablevision and dish antennas, are we less likely than in the past to curl up with a good book? A look at the circulation figures for local libraries indicates that this might be the case, at least in the smaller towns.

Circulation at the Bethel Library remains strong—74 steady 18 or 17,000 a year," according to Librarian Betty Raymond. In fact, the figure is up substantially from 1981, when the association loaned out just 15,000 adult fiction, non-fiction and children's books.

But at the Woodstock and Andover libraries circulation figures have plummeted. According to Trustee Kathleen McAllister, the Woodstock Public Library loaned out 4,000 books in 1982; last year that number had dropped to 1,700.

Andover Librarian Carol Littlehale reports that her library's circulation during the same period has shrunk by a third.

In West Paris, despite the growing population of the town, book borrowing at the local library is dwindling. In 1980, patrons checked out 4,137 books. Last year the number was just 3,963. According to state statistics this amounts to 2.85 book checkouts per capita. Librarian Avis Ellingwood says part of the decline is due to the fact that people who read a lot now purchase paperbacks instead of going to the library.

According to statistics compiled by the Maine State Library, the per capita circulation in Woodstock has dropped from 4.12 books per year (per person) in 1982 to 2.99 books per year in 1986. In Andover, per capita circulation dropped from 6.53 to 4.25 over the same period.

In Bethel, on the other hand, per capita circulation increased, from 5.32 in 1982 to 7.46 in 1986. (Statewide, per capita circulation increased marginally, from 6.41 in 1982 to 6.64 last year.)

Special town meeting to decide on gravel pit

The Bethel Board of Selectmen this week called for a special town meeting to see if voters will raise and appropriate funds for the purchase of a gravel pit for the town.

The land under consideration is a 5-acre tract owned by Shirley Gilbert, along the Androscoggin River, in West Bethel. Price and terms are: total price of $40,000, with $5,000 down and the remainder payable over seven years at an annual interest rate of 9% percent. The acreage has about 400 feet of waterfront.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch said the town is in desperate need of a gravel pit as gravel prices are rising rapidly and the availability of local gravel is shrinking.

The date set for the special town meeting is July 1.

Lots of water; no place to swim

It seems strange that the towns in the Bethel area, surrounded as they are by ponds and rivers, are having a hard time finding places for their youngsters to go swimming. Strange, indeed—but true.

Recreation boards in all the local towns complain that their towns have not taken seriously the need to purchase lakefront or riverfront so that youngsters now, and in the future, can learn to swim and enjoy the water—whether or not their families have a lakefront camp.

Bethel's Recreation Board recently launched a new float for the town's swim program. But without a piece of town-owned lakefront property, how long can the swim program continue?

Town officials from Bethel to West Paris should plan now for future swim programs, unless they relish the idea of busing their children out of town for summer swimming lessons, as some local towns already do.

Living without a past

It is not just that one-quarter of American high school students fail to graduate. It is not just that 15 percent of the adult population in America is functionally illiterate. It is not just that too many Americans think New Mexico is a foreign country and could not tell you where the Mississippi River flows, let alone tell you where the Danube River flows. It is not just that Americans—including Americans right here in SAD #44—no longer read for pleasure.

As worrisome as these statistics are, even more worrisome is the fact that few seem to realize what an enormous tragedy this is.

Civilization is, after all, the accumulated experiences and knowledge of the various generations and various cultures. America is a part of western civilization—basically that portion of world civilization influenced by the Judeo-Christian culture. If one does not know the main tenets of this culture, if one does not know what the main turning points have been in the development of this culture, if one does not know who some of the prime movers have been in the development of this culture, one has no idea where he or she has been historically, and thus no idea where he or she is now. The distillate of three thousand years of recorded history emerges as "Beverly Hills Cop," or "Rambo," and nothing else.

To not care about where we came from historically is to live in isolation on this small planet. To have no understanding of history, geography, literature, music and art is to be unable to put new phenomena into perspective. And it is to leave ourselves open to lies and demagoguery.

Especially in this 200th year of the American Constitution, when it behooves us to be concerned about our antecedents, there is a great silence on the cultural landscape. Politicians pay lip service to that great document; few look upon it as the historical summing up of political wisdom that it was.

It is very disturbing to find that books are being replaced by TV and video in our towns and in our high school. (See story on page one.) The printed word, and the ability of people to read, had much to do with the rapid advancement of the West from Renaissance times on. It seems equally possible that American society will stagnate and decline as our people are increasingly unable to comprehend the written word—or the world around them.

A remarkable achievement

While video seems to be the nemesis of reading and cultural sharing, at least writing seems to be alive and well in the Bethel grade schools.

Thanks to a grant from Middlebury College in Vermont, and thanks to the energies of Bethel parents Will and Marguerite Graham, and thanks to the enthusiasm of the teachers at EBS/CPS, Bethel area students have been pushed to spend a lot of time writing this year. They have written poems, stories, expository reports, letters, what-have-you. The main idea was just to get them to write—and to enjoy the writing process, which included sharing, critiquing and revising.

The program seemed to work remarkably well, and the students (with their teachers' help) just published a bound book titled "Young Voices." In it you will find such remarkable gems as a stanza from a poem by Phoebe Hausman-Rogers:

Time is flying in my attic
Taking my old blanket with it.
Time is flying in my attic.
Picking up every minute.

Now if a love for writing can be coupled with a love for reading—for, after all, one must know something about what has been written in the past in order to write (or think) meaningfully—Bethel will be producing a generation that can be said to be educated.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Bread Loaf in the Schools is a community writing project supported by a grant from the Bread Loaf School of English at Middlebury College, in Middlebury, Vt. Grant money is used to fund weekly teachers' meetings, provide resource material, and purchase classroom writing and publication supplies. Monthly pages in The Bethel Citizen newspaper and the "Young Voices" publication are supported by the grant and local business contributions.

The "writing program" is unique in each classroom. Students write journals, publish their own books, write in math class and record field trip experiences. Bethel students regularly visit other classrooms to share their stories. Several teachers and their students use a Bread Loaf computer network called "Bread Net" in order to correspond by computer with other writers across the country.

It has been an exciting year. We would like to thank the students, teachers, and administrators for allowing us to become involved in the Bethel schools. We feel fortunate to be able to work with the dedicated teachers in this community, and we appreciate the time and energy they have given to the writing program.

The grant would not be possible without the support of Paul Cubeta, director of the Bread Loaf School of English at Middlebury College, and Dixie Goswami, director of the Writing Program at Bread Loaf. We would also like to thank Jim Chandler for his computer expertise, Sharon Felt for typing the "Young Voices" manuscript, and Dave Tripp and his students for printing the "Young Voices" book.

Marguerite and Will Graham

To the Editor:

Our Woodstock Week and the grand finale of the week, the Woodstock Carnival Day, were a tremendous success thanks to the community, the W.E.S. staff, and students and our many sponsors. Without each person and organization participating, we would not have been able to raise $1,500 in one day.

The profits from the Woodstock Carnival Day will be used to fund Woodstock School's 1987-88 children's activities, such as opening day dedication, open house, Halloween party, Santa's breakfast, book awards, and the athletic banquet.

The Woodstock Parent-Teacher Organization would like to give a special thank-you to the following people for their efforts:

Sue Rosenberg; Brown's Logging, Bev and Don Brown; Dave Tripp and the T.R.H.S. Graphic Arts Dept.; Tom's Custom Meats; Tom and Pam House; Max Pulsifer; Prim's of Bethel; W.E.S. staff; Fashion Basket/Brass Buckle; Ruth Grover; Woodstock Historical Society; MSAD #44 custodial staff; Burnie Rice; Steve Howe; Dave, Nancy and Billy Murphy; Hillsman Chorus; Tri Town Ambulance and Emergency Rescue; W.E.S. students; Citizen Press; Bernie Wideman; R.S.V.P.; Greenstock Snowsports; Inc.; Polar Soda; Bryant Pond Baptist Church; Woodstock High School Alumni; Coca-Cola Bottlers; Jackson-Silver Post and Unit #68; American Legion and Auxiliary; Boise Cascade Corporation; Ring-Down Deli; Steve and Laurie Newkirk; Bryant Pond Fire Department Auxiliary; Maine Line Products; Ellen and Rick Whitney; Heidi Littlefield; Seltzer and Rydholm; Gallant's Discount Furniture; Shad's Advertising; Nestle Corporation; Shop 'n' Save; Paula Smith; Robin Dempsey; W.F. A note from the publisher

We often seem overly concerned that people in other countries are going to be seduced by the pie-in-the-sky siren song of communism. What we fail to realize is that, in fact, it is democracy that is the truly revolutionary concept. The idea of being able to control one's own destiny is a very powerful idea.

Often, when a group of underclass citizens have been working with their overlords to peacefully gain a voice in political decision-making, they can turn downright nasty when they come to find out that the rulers are not about to share power. Remember it was the cracking down on economic freedoms already enjoyed by the American colonists that led them to revolt against Britain.

We should not, therefore, be surprised to see pictures of south Korean students, mothers, businessmen and shopkeepers out in the streets of Seoul and other cities battling with the helmeted minions of the south Korean dictatorship. After all, it was south Korean President Chun Doo-hwan himself who had earlier promised a discussion on a new constitution and a popular election for president.

When he reneged on both promises, the frustration exploded.

That much is understandable. What is not understandable is U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz telling the demonstrators to cool it.

The policy of every U.S. administration since 1963, when the Korean War ended in a stalemate, has been to back whatever strongman has been able to seize power in south Korea.

Year after year, administrations in Washington say they are working to get the south Korean rulers to become more liberal. It is now almost 35 years since the war ended, and still nothing to show for this supposed behind-the-scenes arm-twisting. And still no end to the U.S. commitment to defend south Korea.

To the Editor:

Telstar Regional High School's Job Bank, an organization set up to help students find work, finished a successful year last week. The committee wishes to express their gratitude to all the people who submitted requests for employees. For example, Sunday River, Storyland, and Groan & McGurn were among the many businesses that provided the Telstar student body with work opportunities that otherwise would have been unavailable. Thirty three out of 45 jobs were filled, varying from clerical work to yard work, and short term to long term employment. When Job Bank reopens in the fall, it is our hope that the community will once again participate in this beneficial program.

Thank you.

JUDY COOLIDGE'S 2nd-graders were delighted when they saw their writings in the completed "Young Voices" books.

Many south Koreans view the 40,000 GI's still in Korea not as a buffer between them and the north Koreans, but as guardians of the status quo in south Korean politics.

Anti-Americanism was evident when I was in Korea in 1962 and 1972. It is apparently even stronger since 1980, when the U.S. generals—who are nominally in overall command of all south Korean troops—allowed south Korean troops to move to quash a civilian takeover of the city of Kwangju. The bloody suppression of the peaceful takeover of Kwangju cost hundreds of civilian lives.

We can, if we wish, continue to align ourselves with the oppressors; or, we can—if we have the foresightedness—align ourselves with the people struggling to break free of their chains.

The easiest way of doing this would be to withdraw our troops from south Korea. Even publicly stating that we were going to withdraw our troops would put some heat under the rulers and make them reach an accommodation with the people they rule.

And, after all, what are our troops doing there? South Korea is stronger than north Korea both economically and militarily. Our troops are not needed for the protection of the south—the rulers.

One final irony: while we spend over $2 billion annually in military funding in south Korea, the south Korean rulers sell arms to Iran, which country we are apparently getting set to go to war against. Of course, you can argue that our country has also sold arms to Iran, which only makes the situation more ironic.

I see where the Maine House passed a bill ordering towns to institute recycling in order to preserve precious landfills. It seems dumb to me that something as simple as a recycling operation can't be organized without an order from Augusta. And yet, in many of our towns, such recycling operations have not been organized. We complain that state government intrudes too much into our lives. But here's something that everyone knows needs to be done, and yet no one will do it until ordered to do so.

I also see where the Democrats in the Legislature are still trying get employers to take responsibility for the drug problems of their employees. The Democrats are isolating themselves on the issue of drugs in the workplace. A poll by Channel 6 last week showed 70 percent of respondents in favor of allowing (drug) testing in industries where public safety is involved. The Democrats would, on the one hand, ban all random testing and, on the other hand, have employers pay for drug rehabilitation programs for employees with drug problems.

I told you a few weeks ago in this column that the July issue of "Down East" magazine would have an article on Bethel. The magazine came out last week, and indeed the Bethel article is the lead article in it. Associate Editor Jim Brown has written an accurate and thoughtful piece on how the town has gotten to its present position where growth seems more real, and more scary, than just a few years ago. It's good reading. We have a copy here at the office, which we'd be happy to share.

LETTERS POLICY

The Citizen likes to receive letters and likes to publish them, particularly letters on issues of the day. In order to be considered for publication, a letter must be signed by the letter-writer. In extraordinary cases, the name of the letter-writer may be withheld by the editor.

EBS/CPS students publish book of writings

The students of Ethel Bissbee School and Crescent Park School published a book of the best of the writings they have done during the year. The writing program in the schools this past year was fueled by a grant from the Bread Loaf School of English, at Middlebury College, in Middlebury, Vt. (The grant was awarded to and administered by Will and Marguerite Graham, of Bethel.)

The attractive book, called "Young Voices" after the title of the page of writings that has appeared occasionally in The Citizen, was distributed to the students who took part in the program. (Additional books are available at the Citizen—first come, first served.)

The teachers who took part in the program praised it for providing the opportunity, and incentives, for the students to write more, and more often. "This writing program has produced increased self-esteem, pride in our work, increased use and understanding of phonics and decoding skills, and many other benefits," said 1st-grade teacher Sheila Otero-Otero.

"Although I have done Creative Writing with other classes in previous years," said 2nd-grade teacher Judy Coolidge, "I had never done it to the extent I have this year."

Seventeen teachers participated in the program, meeting every week for an hour on their own time after school to discuss teaching strategies.

Some of the methods that grew out of the meetings were: lots of writing—in some classes daily; penpals with Woodstock students; in-class editing and conferencing; publishing books within class; local business support for having writing published in The Citizen; Young Authors' Day—a full day of writing workshops at CPS/EBS with visiting authors and illustrators; electronic mail so that students could communicate with students elsewhere in the country by computer; inter-classroom mailboxes for exchanging messages and stories; students visiting other classrooms to share their writings; writing math problems and more writing in Social Studies; publishing the book "Young Voices"; having it printed by Dave Tripp's graphic arts students at Telstar Regional High School.

The teachers who participated in the program are: Kathy Barry (Grade 5, CPS), Karen Bean (Grade 7 & 8, middle school), Judy Coolidge (Grade 2, EBS), Anne Cordan (Grade 4, CPS), Meg Cousins (Grade 2, EBS), Nancy Davis (Principal, EBS/CPS), Melanie Ellisworth (Ch. 1, CPS), Wendy Ford (Kindergarten, CPS), Debbie Germain (Grade 3, CPS), Linda Gilbert (Grade 4, CPS), Caroline Gould (Grade 1, EBS), Kathleen McCluskey (Grade 1, EBS), Debbie Seames (Grade 2, EBS), Sue Howe (Sp. Ed. Resource Room, EBS), Linda Wheeler (Grade 5, CPS), Brenda Wright (Grade 3, CPS), Sheila Otero-Otero (Grade 1, EBS).

The directors of the program, Mr. and Mrs. Graham, were presented the Community Service Award by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce last month for their contributions to the youth of the Bethel area.

The Sunrise Seminars are informal 45-minute presentations by staff members, who are a changing group each week. The seminars are open to all interested members of the Bethel community at no charge and are held in the Maine Room, just behind the NTL Conference House. The starting time is 7:30 a.m. and they are offered Tuesday through Saturday of each week.

Earlier this week presentations were made by Dale Hill, Donald T. Brown and Donald Klein. On Thursday morning, Donald Klein will talk about "The Fear of Humiliation." On Friday, Michael Broom will talk on "Finite and Infinite Power," and on Saturday morning Don T. Brown and Dorothy Siminovich will discuss issues around AIDS.

The Special Interest Groups are occasional meetings, usually held in the afternoons, and are concerned with topics of special interest to the staff and participants in residence in any given week. Times and dates will vary each week and will be announced individually.

This week two groups will be meeting on Wednesday afternoon: at 4:30 the topic of "Women" will be discussed in the Opera House condominium #1, with Gloria Fauth as moderator. Wednesday, at 5:30, the topic will be "Addictions and Feelings," led by Dale Hill and Phil Springer in the Farrar house, on Spring Street. On Friday, June 26, the discussion will be about "People of Color," and interested persons are invited to gather at the Maine Room between 5:15 and 6 p.m.

The topics for each week's Sunrise Seminars and Special Interest Groups are being regularly posted in a number of locations around Bethel and Locke Mills. Throughout the eight-week summer season the list will be posted late Monday or early Tuesday, but persons who would like to know the topic(s) for Tuesday may call the NTL office in Bingham Gym, at 824-2151 on Monday afternoon. A welcome is extended by NTL to all interested persons from the Bethel area.

Hearing set in Andover

CMP officials can explain the project and hear concerns of the townspeople.

A number of Andover people have been upset since learning that CMP plans to construct a high-voltage line from the Canadian border to Pownal, through the territory of Bowmantown Township, Parmachenee Township, Lynchtown Township, Parkertown Township, Lincoln Plantation, Magalloway Plantation, Upton, C Township, C Surplus Township, Andover, North Surplus Township, Roxbury, Carthage, Dixfield, Canton, Jay, Livermore Falls, Livermore, Leeds, Greene, Lewiston, Auburn, Durham, New Gloucester and Pownal.

The proposed line is supposed to carry power from Hydro Quebec—the Canadian utility—to CMP's service area and to other parts of New England. Despite the statement by Canadian officials last week that Hydro Quebec power would not be sold to New England, CMP officials said they would still like to construct the power line.

According to Town Clerk Kathy Williamson, quite a few Andover residents have been coming into the town office looking over the information there from CMP.

In neighboring Roxbury, on the other hand, officials said there seems to be little interest in the proposed power line, since it will bypass both the village and Ellis Pond.

OPEN HOUSE FOR WADHERAS AT DIXFIELD SATURDAY

There will be an open house and farewell party for Drs. Om and Usha Wadhera at the Dixfield High School gymnasium in Dixfield from 1:30 to 3 p.m., Saturday, June 27. The Wadheras practice in Bethel about a decade ago prior to moving to the Dixfield area.

Stowell mill cuts back

Stowell Products Inc., the hardwood products mill in Bryant Pond, recently cut back its workforce by stopping the second shift.

Workers say further cutbacks—or even closure of the mill—appear imminent. Mill officials did not return repeated phonecalls asking for comment.

The mill was taken over by out-of-state interests two years ago after Casco Northern Bank foreclosed on the original owner. Following a settlement with the union, which successfully charged that the change of ownership was in part a union-busting move, the mill had appeared to be doing well as more employees and a second shift were added. Mill management was changed early this spring.

NEWS FROM BETHEL AREA

Health Center

Camp Physicals

The Bethel Area Health Center will provide a brief screening physical for our regular patients who have had a complete examination within the last two years. The completion of a questionnaire asking for a health history update since the last complete exam is required of the parent or guardian.

A screening physical is a very brief examination of the child for major abnormalities and includes a blood pressure, vision test, height, weight, tetanus booster if necessary and any laboratory tests that are required by the camp or school. It is important that parents bring any forms that need to be filled out to the Health Center at the time of the exam, with the parent's section completed. If the child is healthy, camp or school forms can then be completed. Any significant health problems, however, will probably require a return visit in order to complete a full evaluation and decide on treatment.

A complete physical examination involves all of the above plus an in-depth health history covering physical and mental development, any illnesses, allergies, and injuries requiring medical attention, tetanus booster and urinalysis and blood test for anemia. If significant health problems surface, evaluation and treatment can be recommended during that visit.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE TO BENEFIT HEIFER PROJECT

Fresh-picked strawberries, homemade biscuits, and real cream will be the features of a shortcake event to be held at the Rumford Point Congregational Church on Sunday, July 5, from 2 until 6 p.m.

The proceeds from the sale of the shortcake will benefit Heifer Project International, an organization that works to relieve hunger and poverty in Maine and around the world. A gift of animals and the training in their care is provided to the needy persons, and in turn the recipient agrees to pass on the first female offspring to another needy person. Thus the gift goes on and on.

The public is invited to enjoy a delicious shortcake while helping the efforts of Heifer Project at the same time.

No matter what happens, there's always somebody who knew it would.

Books losing out

"I'm shocked [by the decline in readers in Andover], but there have been a lot of new VCR's and dish antennas in town in the last couple of years," said town librarian Littlehale.

Woodstock's McAllister, who has been a trustee of the Woodstock library for nearly 20 years, agrees that video is probably having a negative effect on circulation, but she adds that a part of the steep fall-off in Woodstock is due to older people passing away or no longer being able to get to the library, which does not have handicapped access.

At Telstar Regional High School's library, Librarian Dorothy Boyce said there are no statistics available on circulation. But, she said, "[I] have the feeling that there is less reading than in past years, simply because of the variety of other things to do." A random inspection of check-out dates in a wide variety of books indicated that most had not been checked out in years.

(It should be noted that both Bethel and Woodstock libraries also serve nearby towns. In addition, the Bethel library serves summer tourists, winter skiers, and NTL participants; thus, as tourism increases, the Bethel library's circulation should also increase.)

Bethel Librarian Raymond comments on the generally gloomy picture for library usage: "Your biggest competition is cable. Once cable comes in your circulation just isn't booming as much." She notes that readers of serious fiction and non-fiction seem less likely to turn to the tube than readers of popular fiction.

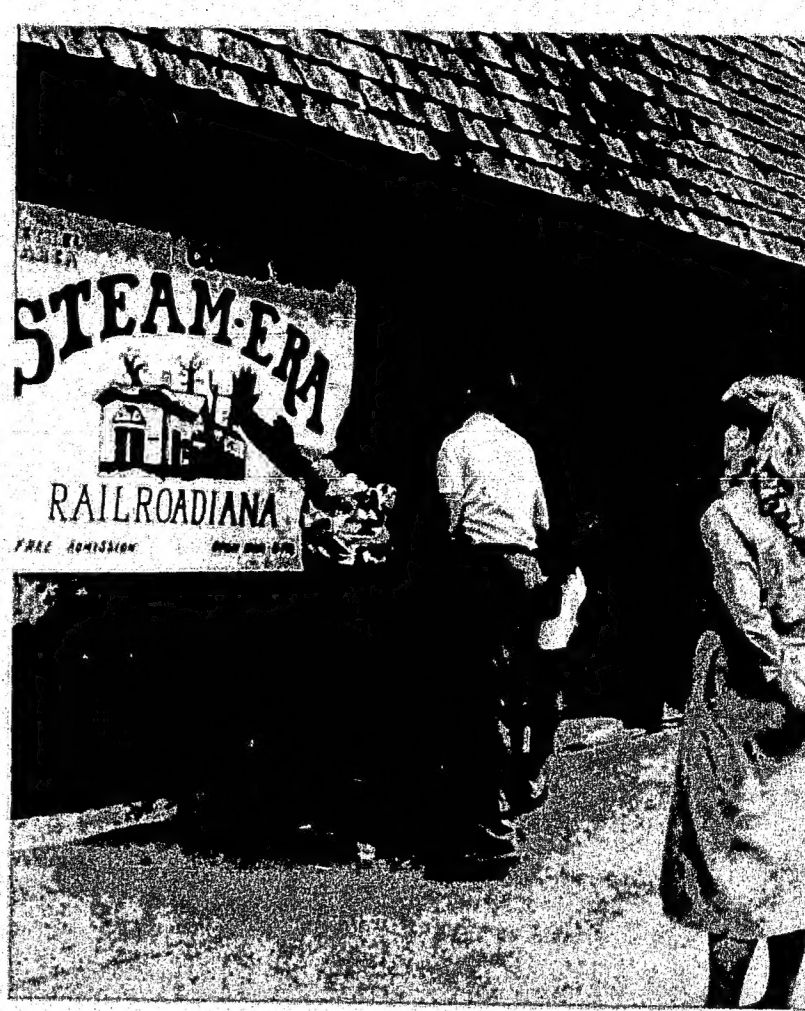

Dick Arnold, of the Maine State Library's library development division, says, however, the decline in reading at some libraries cannot be entirely attributed to competition from video. "Collection and access are the keys to circulation," he says.

The statistics seem to indicate that smaller libraries, with limited resources, are more vulnerable to losing readers to the tube or to other forms of leisure, Mr. Arnold said.

One way to fight back against the tube, and other passive forms of entertainment, is to start readers young, local librarians say. All three local libraries are actively working to lure young readers with new or recently expanded reading programs. Such programs not only help hook kids on the reading habit, Mrs. Raymond says, but they also draw parents into the library—many for the first time. "Some people read a lot and some not at all," Mrs. Raymond says. "The non-readers are the ones I want to get in here."

THE BETHEL AREA STEAM ERA RAILROADIANA MUSEUM opened for the season Monday in a new location—right on Main Street, in the storefront across from Charlie's Pizza. Helping mount the sign are Betsy Kappes and David Sysko, of Sunday River Ski Resort, and Jack Mahon, of The Four Seasons Inn, while Lynne Hodgkin, of Sunday River, checks on the straightness of the job. The museum catalogues the life of the Grand Trunk Railroad, which passed through Bethel on its way from Portland to Montreal.

MMA to help with search for new police chief

The Bethel Board of Selectmen last Thursday night signed a contract with the Maine Municipal Association authorizing that group to assist the town in its search for a new police chief. The cost for the assistance will be $1,500.

MMA personnel will meet with the selectmen shortly to determine the needs of the town in regards to the chief's position. Then the MMA will advertise the position, review the resumes, identify the best ones for town officials, join town officials in interviewing candidates, check references of the top candidates and set up second interviews for the finalists.

CORRECTION

Regarding the number of automobile registrations handled at the Bethel Town Office. An article in last week's Citizen noted that 347 transfers were issued in recent months. It should have stated in recent weeks.

In other action last Thursday night, the selectmen signed a contract with Robert Gerber, of Falmouth, for drilling test wells at the landfill. The wells will permit monitoring of groundwater at the landfill to check on groundwater contamination. This is part of the consent agreement signed last year with the DEP regarding continued use of the landfill. Cost of the drilling contract will be $6,500.

By OLIVE DAVIS

Lettie Brooks entertained the fir strippers of the Universalist Church at her farmhouse on Curtis Hill Tuesday, June 9. There were 15 present at the Day Homestead. They were stripping fir for making fir pillows for the summer sale for the church, for which they are famous. A dinner was served to 14 by the hostess, Lettie Brooks and helper. A beautiful warm day Monday, so unusual this year. The dandelions and hawkweed had no trouble blossoming. They are pretty but what a weed! Esther Davis arrived home on Sunday night at 9 p.m. She has been visiting her daughter Lorraine and family for three weeks. Dianne graduated from high school with 300 other graduates. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks took Bertha Benoit, Olive Davis and Kay Billings to Franklin Grange meeting Monday night. Esther Davis took Olive to Lewiston to see her doctor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Verrill, Evelyn and Alan; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Verrill, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Verrill and daughter Brianne attended the wedding of their son and brother Tom Verrill held in Massachusetts at the Taunton Adventist Church Sunday, June 14. The families left at 11 o'clock Saturday, June 13 and stayed over night near Taunton. Tom Verrill and Carole Medeiros were united as man and wife with Alan Verrill as best man, Evelyn as bridesmaid, Jerry and Brian as ushers. Brianne was junior bridesmaid. After the ceremony the couple left for Bermuda for the week. Alshia Miclon had a birthday party at McDonald's June 12. Those attending were Karri and Kalab Fleck, Abby Catane, Angie Craig and her sister Amanda.

Mrs. James Miclon and Darlene Records went to Pine Point for a day of relaxation Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Eleanore Nelson and her sister Frances went to South Paris shopping Friday. The All Parish church service was held here Sunday morning, June 17. The diaconate will meet at Skip Green's home at North Waterford. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green are being visited by Mrs. Green's parents for a few weeks. John Files Jr. has been staying a few days at the Files camp on Lake Keewaydin.

Albert Nelson is quite busy with the many cemeteries he takes care of, keeping them well mowed. parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Crockett of Bethel. A.H.S. INSTALLS NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM

Androscooggin Home Health Services of Oxford County recently installed an improved telephone system. The new phone system allows better access to the office with fewer busy signals. In addition, a toll-free line has been added for the convenience of the many who reside outside of the Rumford area. The new number is 864-3728. The toll free number is very similar—1-800-322-3728.

"In the past, patients in certain areas could not contact us without a toll charge," reports Laurie Cote, team leader of the Rumford office. She adds, unfortunately this might have discouraged people from calling. Now all of Oxford County can contact Androscooggin Home Health Services without creating a big phone bill.

Reminder: The Old Time Dance sponsored by the Greenwood Historical Society will be held Saturday, June 27, at 8 p.m. at the town hall.

The vacation period at Gilbert Manufacturing Company begins Saturday, June 26, for most of the workers.

The Greenwood Fire Department held a training session Tuesday, June 16, but due to a thunderstorm was unable to do the training scheduled. There's bound to be a few days like that!

Lorraine Mills accompanied Gerry Shimanura to Norway and Lewiston Friday to do some shopping. They discovered that getting held up in construction with the thermometer at the bank next to the vehicle registering 88 degrees shouldn't happen to a dog—and speaking of dogs the Driscolls were baffled at the disappearance of their husky one day this past week. Thank goodness he has now returned home.

There will be no Greenwood Historical Society meeting this month. The next meeting will be in August with the annual picnic scheduled.

It doesn't seem as if June can be almost over. Whatever happened to those long summer months I remember as a child? I haven't figured out if it's just a natural result of aging, bad memory or whether the hot weather did begin earlier and last longer. I know school vacation began earlier and I rather feel for the youngsters who have to go to school nearly the whole month.

It doesn't seem as if June can be almost over. Whatever happened to those long summer months I remember as a child? I haven't figured out if it's just a natural result of aging, bad memory or whether the hot weather did begin earlier and last longer. I know school vacation began earlier and I rather feel for the youngsters who have to go to school nearly the whole month.

There will be no Greenwood Historical Society meeting this month. The next meeting will be in August with the annual picnic scheduled.

Another week has gone by and school is about over. I'm sure some of the children are delighted and some aren't. It will be the same for the parents as it sometimes means more work when children are at home all the time but they, like others, need a change. There are always so many things they can find to do during the summer that will be over before they know it and then it will be back to school for them.

Had to go to town last Thursday and get some work done on my car. Hadn't gotten the winter tires off and decided if I didn't get it done, I might as well forget it, so went and got it done as well as oil change and lube job. Now that is taken care of for a while.

Had been doing some sewing and had things that needed finishing so did some of that after getting home. Was making some clothes for the little girls and wanted them done. Glad when they were finished.

Even though it wasn't the best of days on Friday, Russell did a wash and we took it to town to dry it. We were afraid it might not dry if hung outside in the damp weather. I stayed with the wash while Peggy and Russell went and got groceries and after it was all done, I went to get some pain pills to see if they would help my situation. As it didn't rain, Russell worked in the garden in the afternoon doing some cultivating and whatever needed doing.

As we were planning a family get together on Sunday, Saturday was spent getting ready for it. We planned to have a picnic, potluck dinner for all who could come. Peggy made chicken pie, I roasted a turkey and made sweet potatoes with marshmallows on top. Peggy made a nice fattening cake and I made some zucchini, carrot cake as well as a blackberry apple crisp. Most everyone brought something as we knew they would.

Saturday evening was Alumni banquet and Peggy, Russell and I got ready to go and went to Hungry Hollow and picked up Mary Farwell Smith to go with us. She was in Peggy's class in high school so wanted to go as she did last year. We had a very nice time seeing old friends and sat with some of them to eat supper or dinner, whichever one wants to call it. It is always so much fun to see all the old friends and see how many of the classes will be represented. The classes started with some who graduated in 1920, which was some time ago, right up to the 1987 class at Telstar. There weren't many classes not represented this year as some years in the past, which seemed real good. We enjoyed sitting with some of Peggy's classmates and one of the girls who graduated a year ahead of me. All in all, we had a lovely time and hope it can happen next year.

It didn't look too good for our get-together on Sunday morning but we kept our fingers crossed and prayed it would turn out alright. The sun came out and we got tables up and covered for the food. Chairs were set out for folks to use, I dept check on the turkey that was in the oven and got the other things done so everything was under control. Everything was going fine till we started to eat dinner or lunch and there had been a black cloud come up over Cobble Hill and I didn't like the looks of it at all. I had a feeling we would get some showers from it and sure enough, as we were starting to get food for ourselves to eat, the rain came and it came hard. We grabbed things off the table and went into the mobile home. It was crowded but all found food enough to eat and did a fine job on all that was brought for the occasion. The sun finally came out again and we had a lovely time visiting with all the relatives that came. There were 46 in all and that included the little folks; there were quite a few of them. Some of our relatives from New Hampshire made it and as we hadn't seen them for many, many years, it was a wonderful feeling to see them again. It takes time to catch up on news like this and we did the best we could. We hope those who couldn't come then, will try to come visit some Sunday or any day for that matter if we are home. We would like to see all the relatives that didn't get here. This was a gathering of the Yates families and their families etc. Hopefully, there will be a Rowe reunion later in the Summer so we get to see a lot of other relatives, cousins of mother's and so forth. We always enjoy such family get-togethers.

Courtney stayed up with me for Sunday night but was restless and couldn't sleep good so didn't give me too much chance, either. We were both tired on Monday but survived the ordeal. Peggy drove me to the doctors in North Bridgton and of course, Courtney went with me. This was after lunch an Courtney fell asleep on the way over to the doctors. However, she woke up when we got there and went in with me. I rested after we finally got home as we were planning to go to Franklin Grange in the evening. I was very tired but went and had a good time. It was C.W.A. night and the offices were filled by ladies and our C.W.A. leader got up the program which was very good.

Clothes have a way of getting dirty around here so did a wash on Tuesday morning while Russell went out and cultivated the peas and beets. They seem to be doing good. Peggy had gone up and weeded the beets and we put some light covering, made especially for such purposes, over them and hope it will keep the leaf miners off. Did a little weeding in the carrots and then went back to my house cleaning which isn't all done as yet. Don't know as it will ever be done. After lunch, all three of us got ready and went to town. I had some things I needed to get and Russell and Peggy did, also. Peggy does the driving for us as it bothers Russell's eyes and my legs aren't too good so we appreciate having a chauffeur.

Wednesday was another day of cleaning for me so things are looking better. In the afternoon, I decided to give my plants some tender loving care, which they needed badly. I have a lot of little African Violets started and they are growing all the time. Don't know what I will do with them when they get larger as my space is limited but hate to throw the leaves away when they break off. I usually put them into some dirt to start another plant.

Peggy's daughter and husband, Myrna and Bernard White came to visit and had lunch with us. We had a nice visit with them before going back to our work. Don't forget the dance at West Paris Grange Hall on the Fourth of July. I'm sure it will be a good one.

The Greenwood Hillbillies 4-H club earned money in many different ways and a week ago Wednesday, they went on a trip to the Aquarium in Saco. They enjoyed the trip very much as there is so much to see. A petting farm lets them get close to many different animals and I was told there was a lot for them to see so they really had a good time.

Just have to say in closing that Russell was looking around yesterday and found a lovely wild Columbine out back by the lumber pile of Lawrence's. He hopes to be able to transplant it down near the house so we can enjoy it and keep it growing. It is always strange to see some lovely plant, showing their beauty in some lonely spot like that. However, that is Mother Nature's way and it can be most amazing.

Take care and have a good week, and we'll hope it won't get too humid or at least I will.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for cards and telephone calls while I was in the Rumford Community Hospital, especially the Evans Natch Ranger Station.

Bradley Barker returned home Saturday from Stephens Memorial Hospital, following surgery.

Saturday morning, the folks at Bon-nema Potters found the tracks of a large moose behind their studio.

A busload of 41 went on the senior citizen trip to St. Johnsbury, Vt., Wednesday, June 17. They had a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. David Crockett, Middle Intervale Road, are proud to announce the arrival of a son, Shawn David, born Friday morning, June 12, 1987 at Stephens Memorial Hospital. Shawn weighed 6 lbs., 2 oz. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt of Bryant Pond. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Crockett, Bethel, Maternal great grandmother is Beatrice Farnum, Bryant Pond, and paternal great grandmother is Marion Billings, Milton Plantation.

Solly Gay and friend, Ralph Fields, cut up the trees blown in Solly's yard during a mini tornado. The storm took tree in three nearby lots—Mitchell, Fogwell and Edwards, but the rest of the street enjoyed only a fierce thunderstorm.

Our sympathies to the West family. We attended the funeral of Bertha West in the Wilson's Mills Chapel. Bertha and Floyd were our neighbors for awhile, and I wish they'd remained so. In her younger years, Bertha transported school kids with horse and sled or buggy in the Upton-Grafton area.

The Upper Settlements have no correspondent now. Maybe Margaret Baker could be recruited as she has her weekly paper in a special room and by moving a couple of towels, might add a pad of paper and pen to jot down the happenings. We are interested and hate to have lost touch with that region.

Myron Bergeron of Brunswick and Goldie Bergeron of Temple were Sunday morning guests at the Bergeron home.

We attended the graduation at Oxford Hills High School Thursday evening as granddaughter Kelly Flinders was one of the graduates. By error her name was not listed in the Sun or on the schedules given out. The loudspeakers were such that everyone could hear clearly the speakers and announcements. I wish all graduations would have similar arrangements so the effort of making and delivering speeches would not be wasted. The Floyd Staples spent the weekend at their camp.

A load of lumber came up Back Street slated for William Coolidge. Some telephone calls and he found his way back to Chapple's camp on Route 26 recently purchased by Mr. Coolidge. The truck also contained supplies for Chris Angeline for his newly acquired property on the East B Hill Road.

Reggie Edwards had an operation on his knee and is walking with crutches.

We've been seeing more rabbits and deer than during the last few few years and a porcupine meandered up the sidewalk visible by the car headlights. Maybe the moose will fade as these former common animals return.

Church leaders are planning a Washington for Jesus program in April 1988. This event will include a day of prayer for this country and our leaders.

Bert Lariviere and crew of Errol are doing backhoe and bulldozer work for Reggie Edwards. They have dug a cellar for the addition, installed a well and cleared some land.

Word has been received of the death of Claire Tripp of Branford, Conn., on June 6. Claire has a camp on Backstreet. The dump was bulldozed and a new trench dug for the weekly trash.

School closed this week—a bit late in the year because of storm and flood days.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This day, a day in June, was promised to be dull, but the peaceful stillness brooded over the lawn and woods. The clock said 6:30 a.m. the shadows lengthened on the lawn as I emerged into the cool shade of the trees. Instantly I felt the stillness and believed the day would stay sunny in spite of the promise.

An early bee hummed in to rest upon my azalea bush which is so beautiful at this time. Then it flew to the porch where it fought the window angrily up and down, up and down. After several minutes it whirled out into the sunshine, joyfully.

As early as it was the birds were before me, of course. The jay announced my coming. Two song sparrows asked my business. A chickadee came and perched on my hand. A robin scratched at his way into some leaves within arm's length pausing only twice to look at me.

The bird chorus in the woods began to swell.

Mosquitoes got after me and when they went to work I had to give up and go in for breakfast.

I had entertainment for the next half hour. I had a surprise waiting which has continued through the week. Who can describe the grace and elegance of this bird gathering string and shredding it into bits of fuzz just outside my window? I'll try. He and his mate were dressed in a robe of delicate and silky texture. The shades of blending beauty-velvety black, brightening into fawn, melting browns, shifting saffrons, quaker drab, pale blue-gray and slate, with trimmings of white and golden-yellow and little red appendages on the wing quills, all combined with its symmetrical form gave it an appearance peculiarly its own. Its erect crest usually expresses every emotion; comfort, excitement or surprise. These cedar waxwings were very busy. As they flew away I furnished them with more string and yarn of various colors. They returned again and again. They are late in preparing for a family but most interesting and friendly. It had been several years since they had come to the yard, but I had seen them at the mouth of the Sanborn River.

I have longed to use my boat and to go to the Sanborn River but I have had tendinitis in my right arm so have been unable to row. Some day—

Evening came and the mountains in the distance were lovely. A patch of sunset light was flung over them like a gay crimson saddle. The sun was preparing to drop from sight into an abyss.

The moon has been out most every day at some time so has attracted many who have been going by.

Brother Ernest Curtis, of Poland visited several in town: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, Dorothy Curtis, Eva Felton. Then they had lunch with me and visited a few hours. It's nice to see them well again.

Kathy Curtis was in C.M.M.C. Hospital a couple of days for a test.

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis is nearing finish after the fire of April 28.

David and daughter Madry Holt were with his parents Saturday night.

The daughters, Kathy Curtis and Lucy Bragg of Eva Felton gave her a birthday party the first of the week at her home. Ralph and Regie Leeper of Westport

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

We have had a good week weatherwise with a few drops of rain for the strawberries but we survived and the berries are ripening. We have picked a custard cup of wild berries every day for a week and didn't need sugar.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Ida (Rosa) Hadley in her passing. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher attended the Woodstock Alumni banquet at the Telstar cafeteria on June 13. Mrs. Lempi Korhonen of Carlsbad, Calif., came to the home of her daughter Mrs. Nancy Knights of Rumford Point so she was able to attend with Mary Mills and Eveline for their 60th anniversary. See you there in 1997 (maybe). There were 127 members and guests present. It was the first time Eveline had been to a banquet and didn't see Harold and Ruth Tyler. Maybe next year. A bountiful feast.

Earl Cordwell went by Tri Town ambulance to see his doctor at Stephens Memorial Hospital and came back the same day, June 17.

Mr. and Mrs. "Roat" Lawrence visited Mrs. Polly Lawrence, East Stoneham, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heath Jr., Amanda and Jeremy, at North Waterford. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath and Richard Felt called on the Lawrences.

Arnold Coffin after three trips to the dentist has his teeth all fixed.

Madge MacCush, Roberta Isley's cousin left for Sydney, Nova Scotia, after a six month stay. She loves it here in Maine so she will return again.

Doris Lawrence went to the Woodstock Alumni banquet at Telstar June 13 with Ellen Burns Coffin and Mildred York. Florence Isley went to Amesbury, Mass. for six days. She had a birthday party with over 200 guests to celebrate her 100th birthday. But all in all she is now working on her 200th birthday. She is glad to get back to North Paris. More power to you Florence.

Tom Christman, Roberta's foster son, has come back for awhile to help with his dad. He also missed Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Danvers, Mass. on June 18 to see Mrs. Fannie Vatcher but she didn't know them and couldn't eat her snack of raspberries and a banana. They called on Joe's sister, Mrs. Fannie Whitten, at Swampscott, Mass., and no one home. So they phoned at 7 p.m. and she was in the hospital and may come home Monday. She had an eye implant on June 4.

They visited their camp here over the weekend and visited Dorothy Curtis. Her other callers were Fred and Rena Curtis, Milton and Eleanor Inman, Local; Mary Holt, Standish.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a description of President Martin Van Buren at church—

"Mr. Van Buren was rather an exquisite in appearance. His complexion was bright blond, and he dressed accordingly. He wore an elegant suit-colored broadcloth coat with a velvet collar; his cravat was orange with modest lace tips; his vest was of a pearl hue; his trousers were white duck; his shoes were morocco; his neatly fitting gloves were yellow kid; his long-furred beaver hat with a broad brim was of a quaker color."

—John and Alice Durant

The museum has calendars, stationery (views of the Stage and Library), post cards, pens, T-shirts, and craft items for sale at modest prices. Donations are also gratefully accepted. The money earned helps to society in its varied projects, so do give generously.

A large collection of Woodstock postcards is on display at the museum. Drop by and see them.

Harris Hathaway has given some pictures to the society.

Andover

By MARJORIE JODREY

Chief Petty Officer Lawrence Stinson (U.S. Coast Guard) and wife, Laqueta, and daughter, Brook, from Kodi, Alaska have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stinson. They drove from Alaska to East Andover, enjoying the sights across the country. Their visit was cut short by a death in her family. They left June 10 for Stylville, N.C. He will be stationed at the Coast Guard station in Elizabeth City, N.C.

Keir and Rachel Stinson of South Windham and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stinson will fly from Portland to Frankfurt, Germany, to visit their father, Perry Stinson.

Mrs. Bill Barnett left for home in Ann Arbor, Mich., by plane from Portland on Saturday after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Emerson Sr. for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whitten and grandson Howard Roberts left June 19 for Blanch, N.C., to visit their son, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whitten, and places of interest along the way. They plan to be gone about a month. If time permits, they will call on their friends, Ron and Nancy.

On Monday, June 15, I was honored by my grandson to be one of the chaperones for the 6th grade class trip to the Museum of Science in Boston. We left at 6:30 a.m. and got to Boston at 10:30; went all over the museum, in groups of one chaperone and two children. We attended a show at the planetarium and one at the Omni theater and after a visit to the gift shop, we headed home, stopping at Kennebunk for supper. All had a great time, but were very tired. Those going were the bus driver, Mrs. Joyce Howe; teacher, Roger Sabin; members of the class, Chad Bishop, Sarah Delepine, Nathan Emery, Toby Farrington, Andy Hutchins, Dean Irish, Danny Irish, Joanne Mosher, Kevin Morton, Aaron Milligan, Jennifer Percival, Lorey Parker, Suzanne Richardson, Holly Salway, Jason Standeven, Jon Thurston, Daniel Thibodeau and Ben Wyman. Going as chaperones were Ann Bishop, Carol Emery, Peggy Madigan, Marjorie Jodrey, Marilyn Morton, Gertrude Percival, Bonnie Thibodeau, Karen Milligan and Sue Wyman. The students wish to express their thanks to anyone who helped in anyway at the food sale with donations, or at the car wash to make their class trip such a success.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. George Marston Fraser. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trine and Michelle spent the weekend camping at Bar Mills. On Sunday, June 14, the Boy Scout Troop #573 enjoyed a canoe trip from below Errol, N.H., to a meeting place down river in the 13 mile woods. Those going were Scoutmaster Gary Milligan and sons, Aaron and Eric; Mr. and Mrs. Brad Wyman and sons, Ben and Fletcher, and dog, Trouble; Assistant Scoutmaster Arthur Cole Jr. and son, Jason, and nephew, Billy Berry; Assistant Scoutmaster Rich Donovan, Rex Thurston and sons, Danny and Jon; David Hutchins and son, Andrew; Chad and David Bishop, Jeff Thurston, Jeff Bailey, Tom Morton, Scott Spaulding, and Scott Emery. Everyone had a very nice time. There were many spills but it being a very nice day nobody minded getting wet as long as the food stayed dry.

Andover Elementary School held their annual field day on Tuesday, June 16. The result of the ball game the 6th graders against the teachers: the teachers won as usual. It was a great game, but I'll bet there were some sore muscles on the winning side the next day. This has been a busy fun week for teachers as well as pupils.

Ball games for the farm team and colt league were rained out on Tuesday night to be made up later.

Rev. Marjorie Churchill had as her sermon topic on June 14 "God's Brutal Love." On Tuesday at the Ladies Aid of the First Congregational Church held at the CEB, Mrs. Louise Conroy of Rumford Point was guest speaker and showed slides on the Heifer Project International. Maine belongs to the northwestern division. It was a very interesting talk after a potluck luncheon. Deacon on call this week was Bill Crocker, 392-1811.

Class night at Andover Elementary School on June 17 was very well attended, also awards day on June 18.

Herbert Knox of Canandaigua, N.Y., has been visiting his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cronin and daughters; his son, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Knox and family in Canton, and other relatives for a few days.

On July 4, the Andover Fire Department will hold a craft fair from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the fire station. Tables will be available.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Benner of Portland spent the weekend with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cole, April and Jason. Sunday Mrs. Cole celebrated her birthday.

On Thursday evening the 6th grade of Andover Elementary School challenged their parents to a baseball game. It was a very exciting game with the parents winning 17-16.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

School is over for another year and my final column will consist mainly of paying tribute to the fine group of students who attend the Agnes Gray School. On Thursday, June 18, our annual awards day was held in the gymnasium with all classes attending. Our principal, Mr. Koch, began with the presentation of certificates of achievement to all the sixth graders. They will miss and be missed by their "old school." Mrs. Carol Corriveau was next to present her Helping Hands awards to the sixth graders who work with her in the cafeteria every day. This is one way Mrs. Corriveau says thank you to: Justin Wormell, Jerry Billings, Todd Bouchard, Donny Ferris, Laura Hall, Mike Lackey, Wendy Lary, Andrew Merrill, Heather Newton, E.J. Nye, Rihah Newell, Diana Poland, Shelley Robinson, Jenny Ruokalainen, Amy Small, Stacey Smith, Brian Stinson, and Amy Tikander. Mrs. Corriveau then presented special awards to six students for going above and beyond their usual duties. The following received awards for their outstanding volunteer service: Todd Bouchard, Shawn Dexter, Laura Hall, Andrew Merrill, Brian Stinson, and Justin Wormell. Maria Herrick received an outstanding service award as an underclassman. Mrs. Corriveau made one final presentation which was accepted by Mr. Koch for all the teachers. For our glorious work every noon in the scrapping of trays, we now have a framed certificate and a mini spatula to remind us that our job in the cafeteria is appreciated also!

This was only the beginning of an afternoon of awards! Students from grades 2-6 who show the greatest gains during the year receive a certificate for the Most Improved. This year's students were: Grade 2, Angie Waterhouse; Grade 3, Jason Bradeen; Grade 4, Bethany Hutchinson and Kenny Hill; Grade 5, Danu McAlliff; Grade 6, Shelley Robinson. These students were chosen by their classroom teachers. Mrs. Stock, who works with the students on an individual basis, gave three awards: Most Improved, Renee Pratt and Jonathan Morgan; Most Cooperative, Douglas Penley.

Awards for Achievement in Music were presented by the music teacher, Mr. Barker. Grade 1, Jeanne Dembski; Grade 2, Timmy Farrar; Grade 3, Renee Pratt; Grade 4, Jessica Blake; Grade 5, Rebecca Blake; and Grade 6, Shawn Dexter. Mr. Barker also presented certificates to his Orchestra group who performed at the beginning of the program: Jara Gizinski, Danny McAlliff, Christopher Coolidge, Andrea Pratt, Rebecca Pratt, and Emily Kircherr—all fifth graders. Awards for participating in the Oxford Hills Elementary Concert were presented to Jara Gizinski, who participated in band, orchestra, and chorus, and to Rebecca Blake and Joshua Walton. For the Regional Elementary Music Festival, Jara Gizinski, Daniela Westleigh, Rebecca Blake, Joshua Walton, (grade 5) and Diana Poland and Heather Newton, (grade 6) received certificates.

Our art teacher, Mrs. Sharon Merrill, included special awards for students who work was displayed in the SAD #17 Art sixth graders receiving these awards for academic excellence were: Wendy Lary, Andrew Merrill, Amy Small, and Amy Tikander. Awards were also given for exceptional scoring in the Maine Assessment Testing, which is given in grades 4, 8 and 11. To receive this award, which is signed by the governor and the commissioner of education, a student must score in the 95th percentile. Awards were received during the summer for both last year's 4th grade and this year's class. Those receiving awards for excellence in the reading part of the test were: Jessica Blake, Daniela Westleigh, Rusty Dolleman and Joshua Adams. Rusty Dolleman and Jara Gizinski received an award for excellence in math also.

Academic excellence can and does progress when students are learning in an atmosphere of cooperation. We are always pleased to give certificates for Outstanding Conduct to students who receive absolutely no tickets during the Festival. This involved grades 3-6. Grade 3 winners were: Jonathan Haas, Liberty Woodworth, Willo Andrews, Charlie Billings, Darcey Robertson, Andrew Bolstridge, Heather Edwards, and Austin Hayes. Grade 4: Bethany Hutchinson, Melissa Andrews, Jason Cohen, Heather Brown, Starr Mowatt, Vivi Beauchene. Grade 5: Darrin Emery, Emily Kircherr, Joshua Walton. This is to honor the student who cares about himself and about others. Perfect Attendance certificates were awarded to Carina Hammond, grade 1; Jason Hill, grade 2; Heather Edwards, grade 3; Christopher Tripp and Starr Mowatt, grade 4; Andrea Pratt and Darrin Emery, grade 5.

Throughout the year the elementary schools of SAD #17 participate in district with Math Meets. These occur about once a month, and consist of 8 challenging problems. The scores accumulate and winners are announced in each building. At our school 5th and 6th graders participated and the top three winners were: Grade 5, Andrew Merrill and Amy Small (tied for 1st); Wendy Lary, 2nd; and Donny Ferris, 3rd. Grade 6, Rusty Dolleman, 1st; Jara Gizinski, 2nd; and Joshua Walton, 3rd. One a year, these same grades participate in a New England Competition, a test consisting of 49 problems. Awards were given to the top 5 students in each school. Rusty Dolleman, placed 1st; Andrew Merrill, 2nd; Amy Small, 3rd; Shelley Robinson, 4th; and Diana Poland, 5th. We also participated in the National Science Olympiad, another challenging competition and awards were received by Rusty Dolleman, Wendy Lary and Amy Small.

Four Presidential Academic Fitness Awards were presented. These are presented to students as they leave one level of education to progress to the next. Students from grades 6, 8 and 12 are included. The criteria is to have a B or better grade average throughout school and to fall into the 80th, or better, percentile range in the achievement testing. Our entire school year. Tickets are only issued at the 'big school' so this award includes grade 2-6. Grade 2 recipients were: Hope Lovejoy, Alicia Coolidge, Katie Buehler, Emily Cole; Grade 3, Erin Small, Tanya Rosenberg, Darcey Robertson, Jason Bradeen, Chester Beauchene, Carrie Cole; Grade 4, Starr Mowatt, Tammy Montminy; Grade 5, Rachel Abbott, Daniela Westleigh, Todd Gullford, Christopher Coolidge, Angela Cole, Jacqui Beauchene; Grade 6, Wendy Lary, Jenny Ruokalainen, Shelley Robinson, Amy Small and Jerry Billings.

principal; and to Mrs. Pierce, for being the best secretary. We were impressed with their thoughtfulness and maturity to speak in front of the entire school!

Last but certainly not least, Mrs. Loper presented Agnes Gray School T-shirts to several volunteers who have come into the school on a regular basis all year. I am willing to bet that the students' cheers and applause of appreciation meant as much as the T-shirts. Accepting these tokens of our appreciation for the many tokens rendered were: Avis Hayes, Kenneth Dembski, Kim Inman, Hazel Billings, Eileen Mowatt, Sue Inman, Richard Perham, Dian Stinson, Beverly Farrar, Cathy Gizinski, Cindy Hiebert, Heidi Everett, Debbie Small and Ronnell Cummings.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

What has happened? To the birds, I mean. Growing up in a wooded area, I learned to distinguish birds not only by their color and flight, but by the sounds they made outside my bedroom window. I learned that the bird who chanted, "Teacher, teacher" was an oven bird, and another who said, "Poor will, whip poor will," was the whip-poor-will. Now birds don't talk it seems, and their bird schools have evidently gone out of business. I guess the discourse for birds has gone to the seven winds, and their schools have become consolidated, leaving little time for individual pupil attention.

Of course it isn't the bird schools. No ornithologist of today will allow a bird to say, "Teacher, teacher, or poor will."

If you don't believe me look into Robins, Brown & Singer's Guide to the Field Identification of Birds of North America. Bird songs on pages 10 and 11 are classified as songbirds, prepared from notes of the scale. Middle C for instance has a frequency of 262 cycles per second. Young fledglings are taught in this manner, of course, and if they don't pass the tests of the more technical approach, they graduate anyway, to soar away on new wings, mute and songless.

There is a bird around our place that sits up in the lilac bushes, wasting his time, while I sit on my porch, wasting mine. The bird knows and I know that it's June. He takes an occasional dip in his bath, and peers at me wisely. Although mute, and songless, he knows one thing—as he plops over to the cherry tree, to see if its fruit is ready—and walks through the strawberry patch, watching to see when the biggest berry turns red and sweet. He and I have a race going. He has a red breast, with tinges of grey and I have a red head with tinges of grey also. But we both know, "That the early bird catches the worm" and both of us better keep on our toes.

Peace everyone and God Bless.

Tri-Town Rescue

School is out, so summer must really be here.

The auxiliary is making plans for the annual flea market, which will be held on July 11 and 12.

June training for Tri-Town will be held on the 24th, with the topic being mass casualty. (Something we want to practice, but never want to really have to do.)

The Search and Rescue team responded with five people to assist the warden service with a search for a lost lady from Wayne. She had been missing since the previous afternoon and was found just an hour and a half after the search began, and found alive! This was the first time the team had participated in a search in a year or so, the very first time for several of the people that went, and it was a plus that it ended by finding a live person.

Ken Bacon has recovered from his ankle injury, and is back in schedule; Lillian Herrick is finally settled in her new trailer and has a phone, so she's back on our in-service dispatching team; Kathy Scherf is still off schedule with wrist and shoulder problems. Please

Kathy, get well soon, we really need you!

This seems like a good time to remind people of the phone numbers to call Tri-Town. We are dispatched through Oxford County Sheriff's Department, and to request the unit for an emergency, call 1-(800)-800-482-7433. (Greenwood phone system does not have an IDA.) If you are not able to get through on that line, you can call them at 743-8934. This number goes to the same dispatching center, but is not a toll free number.

For non-emergency transfers, i.e. from the hospital to home, you may call Jane, our chief, at 674-2863, or Mary at 674-2866. Please note that these numbers are for non-emergencies only, in an emergency, call the sheriff's office, and they will immediately activate our tones on the radio, and tell us what and where the emergency is.

When you have to call for us in an emergency situation, be sure to give the dispatchers clear directions, and any information that they request regarding the emergency. An extra minute or two talking to the dispatcher could save several minutes responding to your call. Until next time, stay safe, and enjoy the summer.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR MUSEUM TOUR GUIDES

Volunteers are needed once again this year to staff the Dr. Moses Mason House Museum during July and August. Anyone interested in meeting people, learning about an old house, and experiencing life in the 19th century is urged to call the Bethel Historical Society office at 824-2908 or Judy Haskell, head of the museum committee, at 824-2721. An orientation session for new guides will be held on Monday, June 29, at 2 p.m. in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Any potential volunteers who wish to attend are cordially invited to do so.

NOTES FROM Telstar Guidance

The last news article for Telstar Guidance has several meanings. Obviously, the school year has ended. For the past 10 months, many, many experiences, events and accomplishments have taken place for all the high school students, teachers and parents. On June 12, 71 seniors graduated from Telstar and carry with them much potential to become contributing community members, employees, college students, military personnel and individuals. Congratulations and best wishes, Class of 1987.

Secondly, the "last" Guidance News article symbolizes a change for school year '87-'88. The district's Guidance program will be expanding its personnel and services for Grades K-12 next year. David Walton will be elementary school counselor for Grades K-6. Sally Hannon will begin her position as middle school counselor for grades 6-8 at the Telstar Regional High School complex. Daniel Hart will continue to serve as high school guidance counselor. This trio of counselors plan to organize a Guidance Advisory Committee, and provide a Guidance News article related to district wide news and events similar to what the high school Guidance Department has developed. Stay tuned in late August with the latest developments and services to be publicized in The Citizen and mailings to parents.

In summation, Mr. Hart and the high school Guidance Office staff are grateful to many businesses, community members, employers, high school teachers and parents who helped make this past school year a successful one. A productive Guidance program has positive, interested and active teachers, parents and community members helping its students.

The Guidance Office at Telstar Regional High School will be closed for summer vacations starting Monday, June 28. Mr. Hart will be available to provide guidance services again on Monday, Aug. 24. All Guidance-related inquiries will be noted and saved for Mr. Hart's consideration in late August.

A safe and enjoyable summer to all SAD #44 residents.

Blake F. Johnson of Bethel was one of 562 graduates receiving degrees at the recent commencement exercises of Springfield (Mass.) College.

Newry residents advised about auto registrations

The Newry selectmen yesterday noted that residents of that town will no longer be able to get their automobile registrations at the Bethel Town Office. The selectmen advised residents to register their cars at the Mexico office or by mail to Augusta.

The selectmen notified Central Maine Power that the bill for the entire town office building should be sent to the town beginning next month. The Northern Oxford Vocational Area (NOVA), which gave up its lease on the back half of the building the end of this month, had been paying the electric and heating bills for that part of the building.

Road Commissioner Marshall Fleet told the selectmen that if a new truck were ordered for the town delivery could be made in approximately three months. The committee that had researched different trucks has recommended a Ford F8000, the cost of which would be $35,800, plus $24,845 for the body, plow and accessories, making a total cost of $60,645. There is presently enough money in the highway equipment account to purchase this vehicle and townspeople will be asked for approval at a special town meeting in the near future.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, July 2, at the Middle Intervale Meeting House on Intervale Road, beginning at 6:30 p.m. with the annual picnic. The business meeting and the program will commence at 7:30 p.m. Anyone attending the picnic should bring their lunch and beverages will be furnished by the society. The program will feature a presentation "Dr. N.T. True: Local Historian" by Society Director Stanley R. Howe. Dr. True was one of Bethel's most revered citizens as well as being one of the founders of Gould Academy. Between 1859 and 1861 he contributed a series of articles to The Bethel Courier, the town's first newspaper, relating to the history of Bethel. Much of this information was gleaned from contemporaries as well as found in obscure documents, some of which have long since been lost. As a result, Dr. True deserves much credit for his foresight in preserving tales of Bethel's past that otherwise would have been lost to succeeding generations. Director Howe's talk will commemorate the centenary of Dr. True's death and it is especially appropriate that the meeting will be held in one of Bethel's most historic structures which has been thoroughly restored by the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society. Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Latest contributors to the 1987 Endowment Campaign in memory of Mary Carroll include: Rodney and Kathryn Barnes, Cape Elizabeth; Edna J. Carroll, New Denmark, New Brunswick; Neil E. Carolan, Casco; Laurence E. Burleigh and Margaret Burleigh Carolan, Casco. New members this week include Frances A. Usenik, Washington, D.C., and Bryant Pond; Evelyn E. Row, Alden, Pa.; Peter Tommila, Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif.

The latest issue of the Courier is expected to be mailed soon. It will include an article on Bethel's first meeting house and the first installment of the memoirs of Bethel businessman L.E. Davis (1892-1961). Anyone wishing a complimentary copy should call the society office at 824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217.

Rotary Club notes

The regular Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Bethel Rotary Club was held at Martha's Restaurant in June 23.

Visitors joining with the group this week were: Bill Lowther, Boonton, N.J.; Joe Robiller, Bethel; Gil Robinson, Wilmington, Del.; and Steve Wight, Newry.

Bruce Powell was his usual busy self selling raffle tickets. This week's winner was Bruce Powell.

President Dave made several announcements at this meeting. The District Conference at The Balsams, of interest to Bethel Rotarians was discussed. Also the Student Exchange program was a subject of discussion. Dave is busy with programs involving Mollycoddett Day planning. Hang in there Dave, July 1 is just around the corner and deserving relief will be on the way.

The program chairman was Jim Morahan. His guest speaker was Ms. Wende Gray, marketing director, Sunday River Skiway Corp. Wende is a graduate of Wellesley College, majoring in history. She joined the staff at Sunday River in 1980 and has been a prime mover in the development planning at Sunday River. Wende talked about the development of the mountain, the condominium construction progress, and about future planning to make the area a year round resort. Bethel Rotary thanks you, Wende, for a fine presentation.

The summer social to be held at Rollie and Phil Glines will be held on Saturday, June 27 at 4:30 p.m. All you Rotarians should plan to be there with your wives to enjoy a good afternoon of fun.

Joe Robiller has come forward to head up the planning and supervision of the Woodsman's Competition held on the Common on Mollycoddett Day. Because of a medical commitment, Alan Chapman was unable to put the show on this year. In the true Rotary spirit, we appreciate this Joe. Assisting Joe on the committee will be Bruce Powell, Scott Dennis, and Jeff Parsons.

A preliminary copy should call the society office at 824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217.
